

BALDWIN BROTHERS

Not since the Wayans brothers has a fraternal quartet dominated TV like the Baldwins did in '07. Alec, 49, deservedly earned an Emmy nomination for NBC's 30 Rock. William, 44, lights up ABC's Dirty Sexy Money as a married politician who's having an affair with a transsexual. Now a born-again Christian, 41-year-old Stephen thanked heaven for '07 after he lasted two episodes on CMT's highly rated Ty Murray's Celebrity Bull Riding Challenge. And baddest Baldwin boy Daniel, 47, landed the role-within-a-role of a lifetime: On The Sopranos, Christopher cast him in the horror flick "Clever." Of course, 2007 wasn't a total victory for the clan: Remember Alec's nasty voice mail to his daughter, Ireland? Call us selfish little pigs, but we're hoping the "Baldwinization" of TV continues for years to come.

BIG INTERNET SENSATIONS

Hillary's Sopranos Hit The canny candidate (across the booth from hubby Bill) spoofed the controversial finale. And it was actually funny.

"The Landlord" Will Ferrell's pal's 2-year-old girl Pearl played a potty-mouthed money-grubber in this uproarious clip. Lorne Michaels, sign this kid to SNL!

"D*** in a Box" Andy Samberg and Justin Timberlake landed a Creative Arts Emmy for this Internet smash. It was truly the gift that kept on giving.

Leave Britney Alone! Chris Crocker's tearful defense of Brit just might have been the most disturbing thing on the Internet. And that's saying something.